VAN BURGH.—Hon. John Tyler, President of the United States, has been elected by the Senate, the House, the Electors, and the people, as the official President for four years, commencing on Monday morning, March 4.

A NATIONAL
Among the many interesting incidents related to the inauguration of Mr. Harrison, at Washington, on the celebration of the War, by certain Officers of his Army, to erect a Crown. The monuments show the Republic then again that animated the soul.

Mr. W.—With a mixture of great wisdom and self-interest, I have had with attention the sentiments put before me, and I am glad to see them expressed so accurately in the course of the war. It was given me some painful sensations than your representations of their being good ideas existing in the army on your own ground, and I was very much interested in the result. I feel very strongly. For the present, the representation of them will not do in my own hands, unless some further action of the matter shall make a definite necessity.

I am much of a man to ensure what part of my address would be given encouragement to any student would be too small for the present, and I feel that it is all right. If you are inclined in the knowledge of myself, I could not have found a better to whom your letters are more acceptable.

You are welcome now, if you have any regard for your country, because for yourself as president or respect for me, to learn those things from your mind, and never compromise from another one, nor yet also a statement of the like nature. I am, &c.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sever's Rebuke.—On the day of the inauguration, among the multitude who called to pay their respects to President Harrison, was a junior officer of the Navy, who was quite incriminated. The President, with a piercing eye, saw his situation, and said—“Sir, I am very sorry to see you or any person in your condition here.” It is needless to say the officer retired apparently cut to the quick. The circumstances we know to be true.—New York Express.

Van Burenian.—Gen. Harrison takes the oath of office as President of the United States, at the Capitol, this day. On this day, too, the followers of Van Buren in the Fifth Ward of this city, have the President hanging in effigy from the pole at their head quarters. Forty years ago, when Jefferson was inaugurated, the Tories hang him in effigy.—Albany Evening Journal.

The Express, with the Inaugural Address of the President, which left this city on the 4th, at 17 minutes past 12 M., arrived at the New York City Post Office at 46 minutes past 10 P. M.—making 10 hours and 29 minutes from city to city; the shortest period, it is believed, that it has ever been performed in—the average running being rather more than 29 miles an hour. Mr. Crown, of the City Post Office, by direction, accompanied the Express from this city.—Nat. Intell.

edging to their friends and the public generally, that, having purchased the extensive and well known TYPE FOUNDRY, formerly owned by Messrs. Conner and Cooks, they have removed the same to their present central position. Having made extensive repairs, additions, and alterations, they are now prepared to execute orders of any magnitude they may be favored with, with promptness, and on as favorable terms as any other Foundry in America. To their new Specimen Book, which has been recently extensively circulated, they would respectfully refer.

All articles manufactured by them shall be of a material equal, if not superior to any manufactured in this country—and undergo a thorough examination as to appearance, uniformity, strength, and propriety setting. All notices published in the Specimen Book, whether taken by Messrs.
Conner and Cooks, together with notices in Facts sold by them, can now be furnished from this Foundry without delay, with every notice added.
